

Handwritten text in a cursive script, possibly representing a signature or a name. The text is written in black ink on a white background. The characters are highly stylized and difficult to decipher, but appear to be a single word or name. The text is oriented horizontally and is located in the upper right quadrant of the page.