

Handwritten text in Urdu script, likely a signature or a name, written in a cursive style. The text is arranged in a roughly horizontal line across the page, with some characters appearing to be part of a larger word or name. The characters are dark and clearly legible against the light background.